Energy Efficient

Window World 4000-AS Energy Plus features a contoured insulating underlayment designed to fill in the gaps left behind with traditional non-insulated siding. Its premium 1-1/4" nominal thickness provides an extra blanket of protection – delivering added stability and increased energy efficiency.

Premium Durability

The contoured insulating underlayment is engineered specifically for Window World 4000-AS Energy Plus to provide greater durability and impact resistance than traditional vinyl siding. This robust siding system also features a rolled-edge nail hem and specially designed locking system for superior wall attachment strength. The result is a siding system designed to withstand not only typical “around the house” accidents, but also Mother Nature’s worst.

Superior Performance and Appearance

An exceptional siding is one that not only provides durability, energy efficiency and protection, but also gives your home an aesthetically pleasing, smoother-looking surface. Window World’s 4000-AS Energy Plus insulating underlayment adds strength and support, providing straight and true course lines, while bolstering your home’s energy barrier to the outdoors.

Peace of Mind

With a Permeability Rating of 5, Window World 4000-AS Energy Plus is designed to allow your exterior walls to breathe, reducing the chance for mold and mildew growth in the walls. In addition, an organic additive deters termites from nesting behind your siding, yet is non-toxic and safe for humans and pets. Plus, Window World 4000 Energy Plus is backed by a lifetime limited transferable warranty* – including fade and hail protection.

Window World 4000-AS Vinyl Siding is backed by the Good Housekeeping Seal.
